Introduction

Why Pornography Matters

Currently in the United States, pornography is accepted in mainstream culture. What once was the country's biggest taboo is now an integral part of everyday life. There are hints of porno everywhere from prime-time television to the magazine rack at the grocery store to the internet. The internet is possibly the most important ally pornography has ever known, and it has never been easier to discover new kinks, fetishes and perversions without even leaving your own home.

Yet the average person knows little or nothing about the history of adult films. Most people pay no attention to the technical aspect of porno films, generally seeing them as wall-to-wall sex scenes that serve only to satisfy an urge that doesn't last the duration of a feature film. This may be true of numerous porno movies of the present and past, but during the Golden Age of adult cinema (which is the focus of this book), there were certainly many great productions.

The fact that adult films are commonly thought of as less significant than "real movies" simply because they contain scenes of explicit sex is surprising. Many adult films released during the Golden Age were shot on 35mm film, had high production values, good stories (often adapted from classic literature), decent acting, and were sometimes even produced and directed by the same people that made "real movies." Not to mention some exceptional soundtracks.

Of course, not all the films from this period were so glamorous. Some movies were financed by the mob, shot on 16mm film in one weekend, starred unknown girls with dirty feet, and were made to be screened in sweaty storefront spaces that could hold fifty or fewer people. However, the 16mm storefront feature adult films are time capsules of a lifestyle and an era. They are as historically significant as any film, and should be documented.

Bill Margold told me, "There is no future if in the present we fail to pay homage to the past." The Golden Age of adult films may be long gone, but shall not be forgotten. There is no telling what the future may hold for pornography, as technology advances from day to day in the digital age. I only know it's time to give credit where credit is due.

A Short Introduction to Adult Cinema

Pornography has been created by nearly every civilization since the dawn of mankind. Archeological discoveries have included sexually explicit drawings on European cave walls dating from 30,000 B.C. to 10,000 B.C., and pornographic clay figurines from the Neolithic period, 9,000 B.C. to 7,000 B.C. The earliest cultures associated sexual acts with supernatural religious forces. Hinduism, Buddhism, Taoism and Shintoism all include erotic art as spiritually meaningful parts of their religions. The Greeks and Romans included sexually explicit art in their culture and religious beliefs. Advances in technology would be a boon to pornography and lead to its eventual blossoming. In 1727, German professor Johann Heinrich Schulze discovered that silver nitrate darkens when exposed to sunlight. This discovery would eventually lead to the production of motion pictures.

The first person to produce a permanent photographic image was French aristocrat Joseph Nicéphore Niépce in 1827. Following his death in 1833, his partner Louis Daguerre claimed all credit and re-named the process the "daguerreotype." The first known daguerreotype taken in the United States is a self-portrait of photographer Robert Cornelius, dated 1839. By 1850, at least seventy daguerreotype studios operated in New York City, providing portraits to wealthy patrons.

From 1884 to 1887 Eadweard Muybridge conducted experiments using a series of still cameras which photographed moving subjects, thus creating the illusion of motion. His earliest tests included nude men and women doing things like walking up stairs or swinging a baseball bat.

Thomas Edison perfected his "kinetoscope," the first device to record actual motion pictures, in 1889. Eastman Kodak founder George Eastman soon introduced flexible film that could be used in motion picture cameras. Edison began shooting his own short films by 1894, many of which had suggestive titles, such as What Happened in the Tunnel, Seminary Girls and Aunt Sallie's Wonderful Bustle.

During the last decade of the nineteenth century, the invention of half-tone printing would make it inexpensive to mass-produce photographs in magazine form, making pornography available to the working class once and for all. By 1902, men's nudie magazines began appearing in many countries. A new interest in nude French postcards that were sold out of the backs of magazines, through mail-order catalogs, and under the counter at newsstands was soon to follow. France and Germany were the most active producers of pornography through the early 1900s.

The first coin-operated nickelodeons appeared in 1905. Within the next two years, more than 5,000 nickelodeons were operating in the U.S. alone, making shorts such as What the Butler Saw and How Bridget Served the Salad Undressed, widely available to the public.

A les Culs d'Or (At the Golden Bottoms) is generally acknowledged as the oldest existing hardcore film, shot in France in 1908. Like many hardcore films, it has been re-titled over the years and is listed in many filmographies as Mousquetaire au Restaurant (Musketeer at the Restaurant), and is often dated to the 1920s. Several historians believe El Satario to be the oldest hardcore film in existence, dating it to 1907 and being made in Argentina. Others date it to 1912, while still others believe it was made in Cuba as late as the 1930s. El Satario contains scenes of a young girl enjoying various sex acts with a Devil-like satyr in the woods, which many viewers have interpreted as a religious statement. Whether or not it is actually the oldest existing hardcore film, people considered it extremely political. Filmmakers in the United States, France, Germany, and Latin American countries produced thousands of stag films at this time.

The outbreak of the Great War in 1914 marked the end of the golden age of European stag films. America continued producing stags as other countries were drawn into battle. In 1917, the U.S. entered the war, which is probably the reason the Kinsey Institute dates the best known American stag film, A Free Ride, to 1915. It may have actually been made as late as 1923.

Until the 1920s, stag films mostly went unnoticed by authorities. Stags were shown openly wherever groups of men gathered: bars, bordellos, college fraternities and the like. During Prohibition in America, stag films fell under surveillance along with alcohol and prostitution. Stag films began to appear in private settings or in secret theaters after regular hours.

As the popularity of automobiles grew in America in the 1920s, traveling salesmen no longer had to rely on the railroad system to get from town to town, which resulted in the rise of the "traveling road show" where "smut peddlers" could travel the country in a Model T with a projector and a collection of ten-minute reels of stag films. Roadshowing soon took over brothels and secret theaters as the major means of stag film distribution. Traveling projectionists were often the filmmakers and would make their films while on the road, using connections they made at screenings to find actors and actresses.

The Motion Picture Producers and Distributors Association adopted the Hays Code in 1930. The Code was a set of regulations stating what motion pictures were allowed to depict. It was ineffective until 1934, when enforcement was stepped up. All films would have to be approved by the Production Code Administration in order to receive national distribution.

In 1932, Kodak introduced the Cine-Kodak 8 camera, which ran a single strip of 16mm film through the camera twice, to be exposed one half (8mm) at a time. During processing, the film was split down the middle and spliced together. Bell and Howell introduced the Filmo Straight 8 in 1935. It was the first camera to use 8mm film stock, and it was expensive.

In December 1941, the United States entered World War II after the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor. The production of stag films in America did not cease completely, but it did become more difficult. Raw film stock was scarce and America's attitude toward sexuality shifted, as girlie magazines and pin-ups became less racy. Many road show projectionists relied on splicing together reels of existing films rather than making new movies.

When World War II ended, several hundred thousand young men returned to America with a European sense of sexuality as well as filmmaking equipment. The military had been using film since 1894, establishing a special department in the Signal Corps and several film processing and motion picture production facilities throughout the United States. By 1945, soldiers in the Signal Corps had produced at least 1,388 films, training many men to be filmmakers. Upon returning to the United States, many veterans continued working in the film business. Affordable cameras and projectors began turning up in Army surplus stores, causing a boom in home-movie production. The emergence of private photo labs all over the country solved the problem of many would-be pornographers who otherwise couldn't get their explicit film reels developed legally.

During the 1950s, with home-movie technology becoming more common, the traveling road shows began to die out. Movie rental services had existed since the 1920s, with the invention of 16mm film stock. Companies like Castle Films offered cartoons, comedies, dramas and newsreels. Other companies, like Cine-Art Productions in San Francisco, offered nude modeling reels. Reels were advertised for sale or rent out of the backs of magazines and through catalogs. Some companies went a little further than nude modeling reels, selling hardcore stag films. The first issue of Hugh Hefner's Playboy appeared in 1953. Men's adventure magazines and pulp magazines were also very popular.

In 1957, the Supreme Court decided that although obscene material was not protected by the First Amendment, anything that could be considered art, literature or scientific research was acceptable. This decision paved the way for "educational” films, otherwise known as “white-coaters” such as Kroger Babbs’ 1944 groundbreaker Mom and Dad, which showed actual childbirth footage (the only lawful way to show female genitalia).

In 1959, a veteran of the 166th Signal Photographic Company, Russ Meyer, made The Immoral Mr. Teas, considered the first film of what would come to be known as the nudie cutie genre. It was one of the first films to show a woman nude from the waist up in the context of an actual story. Although Meyer never filmed hardcore, his films Mondo Topless, Beyond the Valley of the Dolls and Beneath the Valley of the Ultra-Vixens will be forever associated with adult cinema because of their blatant sexuality and large-breasted actresses.

The first nudie cutie shot in 35mm with color was The Adventures of Lucky Pierre by Herschell Gordon Lewis and David F. Friedman. Doris Wishman filmed several nudie cuties in Florida during this period, such as 1962’s Nude on the Moon. These films brought about the end of the live burlesque shows and carnival stripper acts, thus leading to the softcore sexploitation movie genre soon thriving with filmmakers such as Harry Novak (Sassy Sue, The Pigkeeper’s Daughter and Please Don’t Eat My Mother), Michael and Roberta Findlay (Touch of Her Flesh, Curse of Her Flesh, Kiss of Her Flesh and Satan’s Bed), Bob Creese (Love Camp 7), and Bill Osco (Flesh Gordon). Ed Wood eventually turned to softcore with Orgy of the Dead, and Andy Warhol and Paul Morrissey made Blue Movie a.k.a. Fuck, Trash, Blood for Dracula and Flesh for Frankenstein. When the nudie cutie genre became over-saturated around 1963, Lewis and Friedman broke barriers in the horror genre by showcasing explicit gore and dismemberment for the first time in film history with films such as Blood Feast, Two Thousand Maniacs and Color Me Blood Red. Doris Wishman turned to the “roughie” genre with such films as Bad Girls Go to Hell and Another Day, Another Man.

In 1964, a former Ohio magazine salesman named Reuben Sturman saw the potential of selling nudie magazines. He began building what would become by the 1970s the biggest smut empire in America. When the FBI raided his warehouse and indicted him on federal obscenity charges, Sturman gained attention by suing FBI director J. Edgar Hoover for violating his civil rights. Charges against him were dropped, although the FBI eventually convicted Sturman of tax evasion in 1995, two years before his death.

In Europe, between 1964 and 1967, Lasse Braun became a famous producer and distributor of 8mm “loops.” Because of his father’s diplomatic license plates, Braun could freely drive from country to country unobstructed and unsearched by authorities, with a trunk full of illegal single-reel hardcore films. Braun not only distributed loops to most of the world, but would offer advice to other filmmakers on how to improve their products and even helped them with legal battles. His own films such as Penetration and Body Love are still considered some of the finest European hardcore ever made.

In 1968, as the United States’ involvement in the Vietnam War came to a peak, the Motion Picture Association of America (MPAA) created a new ratings system that would replace the Hays Code of 1930. Theaters in Los Angeles and San Francisco began showing “beaver films.” Although they didn’t include any explicit sex, they did show close-ups of women crudely spreading their legs for the camera. The “X” rating originally stood for any film that hadn’t been approved by the MPAA. The X-rated Midnight Cowboy won an Oscar in 1969. Many pornographers began releasing their films with an X rating, although it was not required. Soon Hollywood began releasing films as “unrated,” eventually using “NC-17,” leaving the X rating to pornography. The invented “XXX” rating is a gimmick that is still a standard for porn today. X-rated films began getting weekly reviews when the first issue of Al Goldstein’s Screw magazine appeared in New York in 1968.

Denmark legalized all pornography in 1969, the same year pubic hair first appeared on U.S. newsstands with the publication of Bob Guccione’s Penthouse, which had been popular in England since 1965. Reports from Denmark the following year show a large decrease in the number of reported sex crimes. In America, over 500 “art” theaters and downtown grindhouses exclusively showcased softcore sexploitation films by mid-1969. Sam Chernoff of Astro Jemco Filmco in Dallas invited 110 producers, distributors and exhibitors of sexploitation movies to meet in Kansas City to form the Adult Motion Picture Association of America, soon to be called the Adult Film Association of America (AFAA). David F. Friedman would be elected as chairman of the board in 1971, after serving as president several times. The AFAA’s main goal was to protect the rights of the exhibitors from authorities.

One of the earliest films to show explicit sex theatrically in the United States was Alex De Renzy’s Pornography in Denmark: A New Approach (1970). Filmed in the white-coater style, during the First Pornography Fair in Copenhagen in 1969, Pornography in Denmark shows extensive footage of a hardcore loop being projected on a screen during the festival. If prosecuted, De Renzy could argue that the footage was justified within the context of a documentary about censorship and pornography.

Bill Osco’s 1970 Mona: The Virgin Nymph is widely cited as the first hardcore film to have an open theatrical release. Some sources claim Electrosex 1975, also made in 1970, played in theaters first. Both films passed without much notice from the mainstream.

Some exhibitors began converting old storefront spaces into “pocket theaters” that specialized in 16mm hardcore films. In most cities, zoning regulations did not apply to these theaters because many had fewer than 200 seats, some only 50 seats. Storefront theaters became a great threat to the sexploitation theaters because they operated more cheaply and had more daring features. By mid-June 1970, New York had around forty storefront theaters, San Francisco about thirty and, according to some estimates, Los Angeles had more than one hundred. Storefront theaters soon appeared in every major city in the United States. More than 600 are said to have existed in the U.S. by the end of 1970. Many U.S. cities including New York City, Washington, D.C., and the states of Nebraska, Kansas and Iowa tried to create new ordinances in hopes of putting the theaters out of business. Although police were not permitted to confiscate films, they raided many theaters regularly, seized projectors and destroyed sound equipment.

The AFAA soon dubbed the makers and exhibitors of 16mm hardcore features “heat artists.” They feared that their sexploitation theaters would be associated with the storefront theaters and legal crackdowns on 16mm hardcore features would spread to the 35mm softcore films. This did cause confusion, as legislatures passed new obscenity laws, only to have courts overturn them. The 1970 President’s Commission on Obscenity and Pornography issued by Nixon handed down its report that recommended repeal of most anti-pornography laws, showing no evidence suggesting pornography caused any social or individual harm. This decision outraged many members of the Nixon administration, religious groups and leaders of Congress.

In 1971, Reuben Sturman traveled to Europe to meet Lasse Braun in person. Together, they completed Sturman’s new invention, the peep-show booth. Similar to old-fashioned nickelodeons, the coin-operated machines had locking doors and boxes of tissues. Braun provided the loops and Sturman installed booths in practically every adult bookstore in the United States.

In the early 1970s, organized crime, sensing enormous profit potential, began to play a big part in the production and distribution of pornography in the United States. The Mafia’s roots in hardcore films date back to Calumet City, Illinois, in the 1940s. There, the son of Al Capone’s bagman Jake Guzik was in control. Guzik Junior would travel to Phoenix, Arizona, regularly to film “wild sex orgies” and sell the footage. The 1970 President’s Commission on Obscenity and Pornography had concluded that there was no concrete evidence proving organized crime had a role in producing hardcore films. According to the 1986 Attorney General’s Commission on Pornography, L.A. police chief Daryl F. Gates stated that the Los Angeles porn industry had been infiltrated by organized crime from New York in 1969. By 1975, at least 85 percent of the industry was controlled by the mob, from film production, to the theaters, to the adult bookstores all over the country.

Louis “Butchie” Peraino, his brother, Joe “The Whale” Peraino Jr., and their father Anthony “The Old Man” Peraino were members of the Joseph Columbo crime family who moved from New York to Miami to produce hardcore films. Butchie Peraino became interested in producing hardcore films after seeing Mona: The Virgin Nymph (1970) and put up the money to produce a 35mm white-coater called Sex USA (1971). A New York City hairdresser, Gerard Damiano, had a reputation for shooting 16mm features and was hired to direct. The Perainos also produced Damiano’s Changes (1970) and went on to develop their own legitimate Hollywood film studio, Bryanston Films, distributing such films as The Texas Chainsaw Massacre, Return of the Dragon and Andy Warhol’s Flesh for Frankenstein. They were associates of the Mafia’s pornography czar, Mickey Zaffarano, who was an underboss, or capo, in the Bonanno crime family. He worked with the Gambino family interests in New York City, Miami and Los Angeles, controlling all pornography in California. The three biggest pornography distributors in the United States met in Las Vegas in 1971. Milton Luros, Robert DiBernardo (a Gambino associate) from Star Distributors in New York and Mike Thevis from Peachtree News in Atlanta all met with their attorneys and divided distribution rights three ways, deciding who would sell what where and which attorneys would defend who in specific parts of America. Thevis controlled the south and southeast; DiBernardo the northeast; and Luros everything west of the Mississippi.

In 1972, Gerard Damiano’s Deep Throat would change pornography forever. Produced by the Peraino brothers for $25,000, Deep Throat is said to have grossed more than $50 million as of 1982. The star, Linda Lovelace, would become porn’s first household name, pushing pornography to the front of the mainstream. Middle America and Hollywood celebrities alike embraced Deep Throat, bringing about the term “porno chic.” The Mitchell Brothers’ Behind the Green Door, also released in 1972, starred the Ivory Snow girl, Marilyn Chambers, adding to its popularity. These two films became so popular that regular theaters began playing them, selling out box offices nationwide. Norman Arno, a business associate of Mickey Zaffarano, was the Peraino’s West Coast connection. He had started the mail-order Swedish Erotica 8mm hardcore loop company and would help distribute Deep Throat along the West Coast of the United States. “Sweepers,” or theater checkers, employed by the mob, traveled the U.S. with prints of Deep Throat, delivering it to theaters and collecting money. By the end of 1972, almost all of the “art” theaters and sexploitation chains like the Pussycat Theaters went hardcore. Porno directors began using bigger budgets and 35mm film, moving into bigger theaters with the transition. By the mid-1970s, the storefront theaters would be almost completely gone. Larry Flynt launched Hustler Newsletter for patrons of his strip club by the end of the year.

The Supreme Court’s 1973 decision in the Miller v. California case would allow each state to decide its own obscenity laws, without a national standard. That same year, Damiano’s The Devil in Miss Jones starring Georgina Spelvin sold out theaters from coast to coast. This was the popularity peak of hardcore movies shown in theaters in America.

President Richard Nixon was forced to resign in 1974, after his administration’s involvement in the Watergate scandal was revealed to the Washington Post by a secret source nicknamed Deep Throat. His successor, Gerald Ford, controversially pardoned Nixon for all federal crimes he committed while in office, including campaign fraud, illegal break-ins, political espionage and sabotage, improper tax audits, illegal wiretapping on a massive scale, among other things, while continuing to crack down on pornography. As the Vietnam War ended in 1975, the FBI launched a new obscenity trial targeting the film Deep Throat in hopes of eliminating all pornography. Charged with conspiracy for the production of Deep Throat were 117 people, from the cameraman to the projectionist. Director Gerard Damiano and star Linda Lovelace had immunity, but leading man Harry Reems did not. Reems was found guilty of obscenity charges and faced five years in prison. He was the first actor in U.S. history to be convicted for playing a film role. He received major support from Hollywood actors in Los Angeles and New York, who feared for their own civil and creative rights. When Jimmy Carter was elected president of the United States in 1977, Reems' conviction was overturned on appeal and charges were eventually dropped.

JVC launched VHS in 1976, eventually becoming more popular than its competitor, Sony Betamax. It took several years for the home-video industry to develop and most major studio movies were not yet available on videotape. Pioneer publication Video magazine stated that almost 70 percent of all pre-recorded tapes sold between 1977 and 1978 were X-rated titles. The most successful adult video company at this time was TVX Inc., started by David F. Friedman and Kurt Richter. Norman Arno started VCX, obtaining the rights to Deep Throat through the Peraino brothers.

Many successful adult video companies such as VCX, Caballero and Cal Vista flourished through the 1980s. Court battles over piracy were a never-ending problem for video companies and distributors. Organized crime still had its hand in pornography and caused some companies to struggle to stay in business. Between 1977 and 1978, with films such as Debbie Does Dallas still being produced and distributed by the mob, the FBI stepped in, forming Miami Porn (MIPORN), an undercover investigation aimed at stopping organized crime's control of pornography. In early 1980, MIPORN resulted in forty-five indictments, leading to fourteen convictions. As the FBI tried to serve Mickey Zaffarano an arrest warrant for transportation of obscene materials across state lines, he attempted to escape through an underground corridor that connected his 42nd Street adult theater to his adult bookstore several blocks away. While doing so, he suffered a heart attack and died in the secret passageway.

In 1982, JVC and Sony each launched the first one-piece consumer camcorders, eliminating the developing hassles of Super 8 film. Former VCX employee David Jennings started his own Superior Video company in 1982. He shot All the King's Ladies, the first big budget adult film on videotape. This became the new trend in adult cinema, leading to thousands of videos being produced each year, rather than hundreds.

Paul Fishbein, Irv Slifkin, and Barry Rosenblatt founded Adult Video News (AVN Magazine) in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, in 1983.

President Ronald Reagan, elected in 1981, ordered Attorney General Edwin Meese to study the effects of pornography on society in 1984. The 1986 Attorney General's Commission on Pornography, also known as the Meese Commission, was conducted in the spring of 1985 and published July 1986. The report was based on no scientific research, but rather testimonies of "pornography's victims," Linda Lovelace being the most significant. Influenced by the Women Against Pornography (WAP) organization, Lovelace claimed she was forced into sex acts at gunpoint by her former husband and manager, Chuck Traynor, a "suitcase pimp" who was now married to Marilyn Chambers. The Meese Report committee claimed to find harmful effects of pornography linked to violence. Many scientists believe the Meese Report to be distorted, incongruent and with minimized information. It did lead to more crackdowns of many adult bookstores, which still sold "bestiality and kiddie" 8mm loops under the counter. By 1987, fewer than 200 adult movie theaters operated in the United States and by the end of 1988, more than 50 percent of all American households would have VCRs, compared to 1 percent a decade earlier.

According to Adult Video News, in 1986 one in every five videotapes was an adult title, with 1,500 new adult movies being released each year. Between 1985 and 1992, the adult business expanded from $75 million to $490 million. With the invention of DVDs and internet porn, the adult industry thrived through the 1990s. In 2013 about $4 billion a year is spent on video pornography in the United States. Worldwide, $57 billion is spent annually on pornography. That is more than the revenue of professional football, baseball and basketball combined. Daily, 68 million requests for pornography are made on internet search engines, accounting for 25 percent of all searches. Americans rent upward of $800 million pornographic videos and DVDs per year (about one in five of all rented movies) and 11,000 porno movies are produced annually, compared to Hollywood's 400 feature films a year. Total annual revenue estimates for the adult film industry alone run from $5 billion to $10 billion. The home-video market and convenience of the internet would succeed in eliminating the adult movie theaters, perhaps forever.

Reading the Entries

Documenting all adult films produced between 1968 and 1988 would obviously be impossible. My goal for this book was to catalog the most significant hardcore films from this era, from 35mm features to 16mm storefront features, as well as 8mm loops of historical importance and videotapes from the 1970s and 1980s. It is possible that no hardcore features were released in the U.S. prior to 1970, but several hardcore 8mm loop companies were in existence in 1968 or earlier. I have attempted to exclude all titles I believe to be softcore. White-coaters (films released under the guise of being “educational” to subvert obscenity laws) and several documentaries are the only exceptions. Many bondage and fetish titles, such as those by Bizarre Video and Janus Productions, were excluded unless I was certain the film contains explicit sex scenes. I also tried to exclude all compilation videos. All strictly homosexual and bisexual films were excluded, because there are far too many to include in one volume. Certain classic films that include homosexual scenes such as Story of Joanna are included.

It was a difficult task deciding which foreign films to include. For the most part, any film made outside the U.S. with no direct link to the American film market has been excluded, but there are a few exceptions. The majority of foreign films released in America on videocassette and DVD by companies such as Caballero have been excluded. Many of these films were re-titled and given fake credits for the U.S. market, making them extremely difficult to document accurately.

I chose to exclude many obvious “mainstream” cult classics that only contain insertion shots, rather than the actors and actresses themselves performing sex acts, such as Thriller: A Cruel Picture and Jess Franco’s 99 Women. Caligula and I Am Curious (Yellow) have also been excluded, simply because they have already been adequately chronicled elsewhere.

During my research, I constantly compared film credits, title lists, catalogs and the books listed in the bibliography to imdb.com and iafd.com. When possible, I spoke to producers, directors, actors and actresses involved in the production of the films. I’ve done my best to clarify any contradicting information that I discovered while using these sources.

In most cases, the films are listed by the title of their initial theatrical or video release in the U.S. Some films are listed by the title they currently bear on DVD, but the original title is noted in these cases. Primary alternate titles are listed in the main title line if the film is commonly known by both titles. If a film is not widely known by its alternate title, then that title is listed in the synopsis rather than the title line. If a film has several alternate titles, they are listed in the synopsis. Bowdlerized and undefined alternate titles are listed in the synopsis only. The years are listed according to the initial theatrical or video release date when possible.

When possible, the company credits are listed according to the original production company that made the movie. In some cases, the company credits are listed as the earliest known theatrical distributor of the film in the U.S. In other cases, the company credits are listed as the earliest known American distributor of the videocassette release. When company credits are questionable or unknown, I’ve done my best to clarify this information in the synopsis. Running times have been listed when possible, but vary on certain titles, depending on which version of the film was available to me. In most cases, running times are listed according to the longest known running time for each title. I attempted to explain the reasons for edited cuts of certain films in the synopses.

Producers have been listed when possible; otherwise only the director is listed. In many cases, the director was also the producer. The directors are listed by their real names, when possible. In other cases, they are listed by the name by which they are most commonly known. Cast lists were taken from various sources listed in the bibliography. Extreme care was taken in choosing which name would be used for each porn star’s primary name listing. When possible, I have listed the alternate name each porn star used on each different film.

Each synopsis is based upon my viewing of the film when that was possible. Descriptions of films I was not able to view are taken from various sources listed in the bibliography or by speaking to someone involved in the production. It was not my intent to review the films or rate the films using my personal opinion, but rather to document storylines and historical facts about each film for posterity. I have also included technical information about each film when available. My hope is that in the future a revised edition of this book will be available, filling in many of the blanks and adding corrections. Until then, I invite you to join an odyssey into the abyss of the Golden Age of adult films.

THE FILMOGRAPHY

1. THE ABDUCTION OF LORELEI

1976 Richard Rank Associates 70 min. P/D: Richard Rank. Cast: Serena (as Jenn Gillian), Monique Perris, Charles Neal, John Galt, James Alexander (non sex)

The story begins with an obviously rich young girl named Lorelei (Serena) shopping in high-class stores for clothing, jewelry and lipstick. Later, driving in a Lincoln Continental, she uses the car phone to call her rich father, who is leaving on a business trip. As Lorelei stops at a shopping center, two men in a van abduct her. As one guy drives, the other viciously rapes Lorelei for at least ten minutes. The men plan on trying to get a million dollar ransom from Lorelei's father. When they arrive at their hideout, the two men and a woman captor, Jenny (Perris), tie up and abuse Lorelei, who begins enjoying her female captor sexually. There is a violent plot-twist at the end, standard of many rape/revenge films from the late 1970s.

2. ACT OF CONFESSION

1972 Unknown 68 min. P/D: Anthony Spinelli (as Sybil Kidd). Cast: Cyndee Summers, Kim Durey, Franklin Anthony (as Noel Hemphill), Keith Erickson (as Rick Powell), Rocco Manuel, Neville Francis

It was rumored by Playboy magazine in 1973 that this film would never be released theatrically. Later, it was rumored by various writers that it would never be released on video either. Rocco Manuel plays Christ, who walks on water and even gets felled by a nun. Some writers have credited Jack Armstrong as the director and producer, but Anthony Spinelli (as Sybil Kidd) is widely cited as the director. Kim Durey plays Sister Beatrice, a nun in the Middle Ages, who works in a field. She narrates the story, admitting that although she tries to be a good girl, she has many sexual fantasies. Beatrice shares a cell with Sister Jennifer (Summers), who she imagines kissing on her bed as they say their prayers at night. The following day, Beatrice dreams about herself and Jennifer receiving communion from a priest and friar (Erickson and Anthony). Instead of eating hosts, they fellate both men, carefully collecting semen on a plate held under their chins, to be returned to the altar. Beatrice decides to confess her sins to the priest who masturbates in the confessional, fantasizing about sex with her, as she lies on her back, eyes closed and hands in the prayer position. The priest gives Beatrice penance of saying the Lord's Prayer 742 times (although she says in a flashback, it didn't help), but she is soon dreaming about an orgy with Jennifer, a priest and two friars. Beatrice is then tied to a cross (complete with INRI inscription) and shared by the two friars. The film ends back in the field with Sister Beatrice working, flashing back to earlier events, now content with becoming a "bride of Christ."

Described by the late adult film historian Jim Holliday as "the finest example of fun and fluff," All American Girls is about six former sorority sisters who share sex stories at a reunion organized by Miss Caroline (Gianetti) in London. This format was repeated in dozens of uninspired adult films, but according to Holliday, this was the original "sorority sisters spill their sex stories" film. The actual location was a San Francisco house scheduled for demolition, but exterior shots of London, Paris, Las Vegas and Hong Kong give the film a sophisticated feeling. The Las Vegas casino scene featuring Lynx Canon and Starr Wood was actually filmed in the Hyatt Embarcadero in San Francisco. The Hong Kong Chinese New Year's parade is cut with footage of the Japanese Tea Gardens in Golden Gate Park, San Francisco. Released on DVD by Adam and Eve.

All the King's Ladies is the first adult feature film to be shot directly onto videotape, according to David Jennings' autobiography, Skin-flicks: The Inside Story of the Adult Film Industry (1st Books, 2000). Jennings graduated from UCLA Film School in 1970 and shot films for the first theatrical exhibitor of hardcore pornography in America. He spent several years directing industrial and commercial films before returning to the adult film business in 1977 to research and write about it. He was the head of film and video for what the FBI called "the biggest Mafia porno outfit on the West Coast," and helped to make its subsidiary VCX (Video Cassette X-rated) an early leader of adult video. He formed his own company, Superior Video Inc., after leaving VCX in 1979. Superior Video was a leading video manufacturer in the 1980s, pioneering the shot-on-video format which would become the biggest trend in adult video by the end of the 1980s.

The film, about a stud mutiny at "Eden," where rich women pay to fulfill their fantasies, showcases Juliet Anderson as a director and enabled her to secure financing for Educating Nina. Anderson had become famous as an actress with her Aunt Peg character in Swedish Erotica loops. Jennings struck a co-manufacturing deal for the movie with Select-A-Tape, run by Alan Roberts, who directed the R-rated Young Lady Chatterley and wrote the screenplay for Herschell Gordon Lewis' The Gore-Gore Girls. All the King's Ladies launched the Superior Video company and was called one of "The 500 Best Adult Movies of All Time" by Adam Film World's 1987 X-Rated Movie Handbook.

Bolla), Ron Jeremy

Director Gary Graver worked as a cameraman on productions with Orson Welles, Ron Howard, Paul Bartle and other major filmmakers. Veronica Hart stars as a high class Los Angeles call-girl who gets mixed up in a murder. call girls. Robert Bullock plays a character similar to Robert Kerman's character in the original, a homicide detective named Alex investigating the murder of a call girl named Bridgette. Krista Lane plays the lead role of Melissa, Bridgette's former roommate who reluctantly agrees to help Detective Alex, but has second thoughts after being offered a job by a high-class pimp (Savage). Amanda by Night 2, which had a much smaller budget than Graver's $100,000 original, has more of a soap opera feel than a mystery thriller tone, which made the original such a classic. Nevertheless, Amanda by Night 2 is one of the last major hardcore films to be shot in 35mm. It was the winner of two AVN Awards: Best Couples Sex Scene on Film (Hartley, Savage), Best Screenplay (Harold Lime). Released on DVD by Caballero.

One of the many dated documentaries produced in the early 1970s showing the boom of X-rated movies, magazines and culture. The film opens up with a shot of the Statue of Liberty as "America the Beautiful" plays in the background, and then quickly cuts to a homeless person lying on the sidewalk. Next, street interviews are mixed with montages of 42nd Street and Times Square, as well as shots of X-rated theatres in Baltimore, Dallas, Miami, San Francisco and Washington, D.C. The audience is taken behind-the-scenes for the production of a hardcore loop and a still photography sex shoot. There is also a look at a vintage stag film, the old 8-pagers (pornographic Tijuana Bible cartoons) and an interview with a sex film magazine publisher, followed by footage of a gay-pride parade where we see a pick-up truck hauling a huge jar of Vaseline. Released on DVD by Something Weird Video.

Al tells Mark that he could use help on his stud farm during the summer and would pay $1000 plus room-and-board if Mark wants the job. Candy interrupts, leading to a long sex scene where Mark and Candy have sex from the bedroom to the swimming pool. At lunch, Al tells Mark that he, Monica, Candy and Bianca are all 25 percent owners of a famous Shaw stallion that’s being delivered to the ranch soon. Later, Charlie arrives at the ranch and turns out to be Al’s neighbor. He offers them five million dollars for the Shaw, but everyone refuses. Down the road, angry Charlie meets up with two classic dumb-bell hooligans, Junior and Butch (Percy and Goon), and tells them to steal the horse. At the ranch, Mark and Bianca have sex, and then Mark hangs out with Candy in the pool. Detective Brown arrives to deliver an unsigned message from Charlie, telling them the Shaw has been stolen. Josephine Carrington and Sheri St. Clair teach her how to perform fellatio, using Tom Byron’s penis. Frustrated that everything she writes becomes dirty, Alison crumples up the story after reading it aloud. The old lady is in fact Stevens dressed in drag and he abducts Annabella and rapes her. Based on an anonymously written seventeenth-century French pornographic tale, Autobiography of a Flea faithfully follows the original story, according to Playboy magazine upon its theatrical release. Narrated in a voice-over, a flea tells the sexual adventures of a "fourteen-year-old" girl named Belle (Jennings), while living in her pubic hair. Belle meets a young man in church and they go to a nearby park to fool around. A priest named Father Ambrose (Thomas) happens to be passing by and catches them. He takes Belle in private to receive punishment and introduces her to sex. Then he invites three other priests (including John Holmes) to violate her, one after another. Belle discovers that she loves physical pleasure and spirals downward into depravity. Excellent Victorian-era costumes and sets add to the production value of the film, although the sex scenes are either very short or simulated and the first climax doesn't happen until an hour into the movie. Many taboos are pushed, including incest, rape, underage sex and corrupt priests. Released on DVD by Mitchell Brothers.

Agnes complains to her psychiatrist, Dr. Beverly Burns (Zee), about her lover running off with another woman. As Agnes is leaving, she bumps into the next patient, Charley (Bullock), who recognizes her and tells Dr. Burns that Agnes is "just a crummy slut and you're just like her." Dr. Burns has sex with him in a nasty-talking sex scene fantasy. Agnes is a waitress at the Geary Club bar, from the sequel, and she's talking to Denise (Kane). Charley strolls in and eyes up Denise. Back at Dr. Burns', Hilary (Knights) talks about how she can't get off without dressing in men's clothes. Dr. Burns tells her to dress up, and then gets her off good. Eddy walks into the Geary Club bar with his friend Frankie (Silvera). Denise and Agnes are fellating Charley at the bar, and Eddy is lifting up girl's skirts to check if they're wearing underwear. Frankie has to urinate, so everyone ends up in the bathroom in classic Pachard style. When Eddy gets home later, he finds Glenda masturbating on the couch, and he pleases her. Frankie arrives at his home later, and we find out he's married to Hilary. She's dressed as a man and dresses Frankie up like a woman. Role reversal is Pachard's final touch in keeping the theme of the Babylon Pink series during the final sex fantasy scene.

Ron Jeremy directed the third film of the popular Backdoor to Hollywood series in the late '80s. They have a few romps with some country boys, but when the local sheriff finds out what's going on, he arrests the girls. Lucky for them, the deputy (Jeremy) is willing to double cross his boss and help them. David Dukeham is excellent as Uncle Stan, who runs the camp and tries to figure out which of the girls are really guys. Because Money is chained to a wall in the scene, no sex is shown, in accordance with current American laws prohibiting bondage movies to depict actual intercourse. The story is about a young girl named Gloria (Chambers), who is kidnapped from a hotel and brought to a seedy sex club, where she's put on stage and forced to participate in countless sexual activities with numerous partners. As the crowd watches, they become excited, which leads to an orgy that lasts the final fifty-five minutes of the movie. The superb cinematography and direction create a surreal experience using slow motion, interesting angles and psychedelic effects never again duplicated in a movie of its kind. Released on DVD by Mitchell Brothers.

Artie Mitchell cast his new girlfriend Missy Manners as the lead in the movie. Manners' real name was Elisa Florez, and she had worked as a United States Senate page, receptionist for Utah Republican Senator Orrin Hatch, and was the daughter of the Undersecretary of Education during the administration of George H. W. Bush. She claims to have appeared in the movie because of her opposition to Ed Meese and his war against pornography and the First Amendment. 225. BEL AMI

1975 Quality X 104 min. P/D: Inge Ivarson/Mac Ahlberg (as Bert Thorn). Cast: Anne Bie Warburg (as Bie Warburg), Christa Linder, Christina Hellman, Christine Gyhagen (non sex), Eva Axen (non sex), Jacqueline Laurent, Lisbeth Olsen (as Lisa Olsson), Lotte Cardy (non sex), Lucienne Camille, Marie Forsa (as Maria Lynn), Pia Rydberg, Andre Chazel (non sex), Bent Warburg (non sex), Charlie Elvegard (non sex), Ewert Granholm (as Evert Granholm) (non sex), Gothe Grefbo (non sex), Harry Reems, Keld Holm (non sex), Lars Lennartsson (non sex), Preben Mahrt (non sex), Rune Hallberg (non sex)

Mac Ahlberg, the Swedish director of I, a Woman directed this film which was billed as "Harry Reems' last adult film," although Reems appeared in many more adult films until the mid-1980s. Reems plays a bumbling hero named George du Roi, a writer doing an article about an Erotic Museum and Playhouse Magazine in Stockholm, Sweden. Charles Forrestier (Chazel), who is the magazine editor and museum curator, attempts to corrupt Roi by offering him $3000 to write an erotic poem instead of the article. Soon, Roi finds himself seduced by ten beautiful Swedish women and an African princess. Anne Bie Warburg, Christa Linder, Marie Forsa and Lucienne Camille all used body doubles for their hardcore close-ups. Jacqueline Laurent's scene with Harry Reems is softcore. Laurent is best known for her roles in Jess Franco's The Sinner and Lorna, the Exorcist. The screenplay written by Ahlberg is a modern version of Guy de Maupassant's story. Bel Ami was shot in Sweden shortly before Reems' trial in Memphis, Tennessee, for appearing in Deep Throat. Reems was eventually acquitted, and planned on breaking into mainstream Hollywood films. He was even cast to play the coach in Grease, but the filmmakers changed their mind at the last minute, leading to his return to porn movies. Released on DVD by Video-X-Pix.

At the end, Julia Franklin is forced to fight the Amazon Queen (Rains) topless in a cave lit by torches. The sex scenes featuring Kim Pope were shot with great care, but the clichéd-ridden dialog and macabre plot force the sex scenes to come off as uninspired. Kim Pope had been mugged and punched out in Greenwich Village shortly before shooting Beneath the Mermaids and Farewell Scarlet. Her jaw was wired shut during parts of both productions.

340. THE BLUE BALLOON

1972 Scandica Film 72 min. P/D: Bent Tomming/Svig Sven, Gunnar Lasberg. Cast: Lisbeth Olsen, Sune Pilgaard, Bent Rohweder

The Blue Balloon is a notorious and grimy Danish masterpiece advertised as "The best film to ever come out of Denmark!" It's about a young couple, obviously in love and recently married. They are soon separated, as the young bride cries while her husband boards a waiting bus. The girl is approached by a rough-looking lesbian who slips her a Mickey and takes her to a garage with a bed in it. The girl becomes a victim in a world of degradation and prostitution, as the lesbian casts away her wedding ring, abuses her with a dildo and performs cunnilingus on her. The lesbian phones a party of poker pals and invites them over for some kicks. Two men arrive and remove the girl's clothes with a pocket knife, force her to get high, tickle her with a feather duster and tie her to a wooden table while they rape her from each end. The remainder of the film focuses on the girl's transformation from a teeny-bopper into a painted streetwalker and her liaisons with various johns. One scene shows the girl getting double penetrated by two men she picked up in an alley. The stark locations and painfully downbeat performance of the lead actress give the film a harsh realism uncommon of many of the high-gloss European films of the day. Released on DVD by After Hours Cinema.

Caught from Behind 6 was proudly shot in 35mm and stars Kari Foxx as an anal sex therapist at a weekend retreat for couples. In a steamy shower scene, Keli Richards has anal sex with Marc Wallace. Trinity Loren discovers anal ecstasy with Tom Byron and Peter North. Later, Tanya Foxx offers her plump anus to Peter North and once again, Kari Foxx steals the show with her real-life love interest Troy Tannier. It's obvious that Hal Freeman strove for excellence when making his famous Caught from Behind series, and lush-looking, shot-on-film features would become virtually extinct within the next few years. Released on DVD by Hollywood Video.

482. CAUGHT FROM BEHIND 7

1987 Hollywood Video 80 min. P/D: Hal Freeman. Cast: Lisa De Leeuw, Carol Titian (as Titian), Chanel Price, Rachel Ryan (as Penny Morgan), Billy Dee, Chris Reed, Frank James, Peter North

Nearly a decade after her first adult film, 800 Fantasy Lane, Lisa De Leeuw appeared in her first anal sex scene in Caught from Behind 7. The box art claims that the actresses in this movie were "carefully hand-picked." All of the anal sex scenes are one-on-one. Released on DVD by Hollywood Video.

483. CAUGHT FROM BEHIND 8: IT'S A WHOLE NEW END

1988 Hollywood Video 82 min. P/D: Hal Freeman. Cast: Barbie Doll (as Barbie Dahl), Fallon, Laurel Canyon, Tiffany Storm, Tanya Foxx (as Tanya Fox), Valentina, Sasha Gabor, Ron Jeremy, Randy Paul, Marc Wallace (as Mark Wallace)

Caught from Behind 8 is a dirty detective story and the box art promises, "It's the hottest, nastiest, sexiest ENDING ever!" Apparently, the girls in this movie know the "True Pleasures of the Forbidden Zone." All of the anal sex scenes are one-on-one, and there is a good three-way scene of Barbie Doll, Tanya Foxx and Sasha Gabor. Released on DVD by Hollywood Video.

484. CAUGHT FROM BEHIND 9

1988 Hollywood Video 85 min. P/D: Hal Freeman. Cast: Brandy Alexandre, Tanya Foxx (as Tanya Fox), Tawnee Lee (as Tawni Lee), Viper, Tom Byron, Jon Dough, Buddy Love, Chet Sander, Marc Wallace (as Mark Wallace)

In the final Caught from Behind movie directed by its creator Hal Freeman, many fans of Brandy Alexandre will be disappointed that she performs no anal sex in Caught from Behind 9. The rest of the actresses do perform anal sex. By 1988, most adult movies were being shot-on-video and fine productions like the early Caught from Behind films were nearly extinct. The Caught from Behind series did continue through 2001, although later releases are shot-on-video. At least 35 movies exist in the Caught from Behind series. Released on DVD by Hollywood Video.

485. CAUGHT IN THE ACT

1978 Unknown 58 min. P/D: Jerome Bronson/Lee Young. Cast: Juliet Anderson, Bridgette Leon, Lisa Moore, John Seeman, Don Fernando

Juliet Anderson stars as a Bondage mistress in this movie that was originally released theatrically in the USA on October 1, 1978. 1985 CDI Home Video 87 min. P/D: Jim Reynolds/Gerald Wayne. Cast: Tracey Adams, Gail Force, Kari Foxx, Tiffany Blake, Tami Lee Curtis, Marc Wallace, Peter North, Rick Savage, Ted Wilson

Martin (Savage) and Peggy (Adams) live in suburbia with their teenage son Chip (North). When he's not hanging out with his high school friends Pete (Wallace) and Sid (Wilson), he's busy sleeping around with a Radcliffe college girl Cindy (Foxx). Chip and Cindy eavesdrop on Martin and Peggy having sex because Chip wants to make sure they're going away for the weekend. Chip has sex with Cindy on the patio and finishes just before his dad comes out to say goodbye. As soon as Chip's parents drive off, Pete and Sid show up with Pete's cousin Patty (Force). Soon Cindy's college friends Lisa (Curtis) and Kendra (Blake) show up. A topless pool party and barbeque is in full swing when Lisa demonstrates her talent for sausage swallowing. Patty stays in the tent as everyone has sex by the pool. Later, the guys draw from a hat and end up in bedrooms with different girls. Cindy gets drunk in the kitchen and passes out, so Patty takes her place with Chip. Martin and Peggy arrive home early, but luckily, everyone is gone and Chip and Cindy are in their own beds. A blow-up sex doll in the pool is all that remains to be explained. The story was written by P.D. Connors (as Philip Dennis Connors).

487. CAVALCADE OF STARS

1986 Unknown 84 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Ginger Lynn, Brittany Stryker, Bunnie Blake, Christy Canyon, Erica Boyer, Gina Carrera, Heather Wayne, Sandy Summers, Kathlyn Moore, Dick Rambone, Greg Rome, Harry Reems, Marc Wallace, Rick Savage, Tony Martino

Music and porno come together in Bobby Hollander's visual assault of the senses. The sexual ballet plays out with little dialog, accompanied by a rock beat and edited in a 1980s MTV style. The action is fast and the screen becomes a panorama of perversion dissolving into the background. Ginger Lynn and Erica Boyer appear in longer sequences.

488. CAVE WOMEN a.k.a. ONCE UPON ANNETTE

1979 Artimi Films 61 min. P/D: Annette Haven. Cast: Abigail Clayton, Amber Hunt, Annette Haven, Cris Cassidy (as Montana Brent), Desiree West (as Pat Lee), China Leigh (as Tina Orchid), Bob Bluecloud, Carl Regal, Blair Harris (as David Blair), Mick Jones (as Rom Amora), Paul Thomas, James Fong (non sex)

Annette Haven wrote, directed and stars in this offbeat porno from San Francisco's Golden Age of adult films. Auclair May (Haven) is an anthropologist who travels in a time machine to study the sex lives of Cro-Magnon men and women. The sex scenes are playful and caring, but mostly lacking in eroticism. Of course, Auclair gets pawed by curious cavemen, resulting in a big cave orgy finale. Released on DVD by Alpha Blue Archives.

Later, when her husband comes home from work, Leslie complains about cleaning the house all day. The story was written by Billy Boyer and cinematography was done by Jon Fontana. Original music is performed by Jeff Unger.

490. CELLS OF PASSION a.k.a. BIGHOUSE BABES

Boyer, Holly McCall, Jade Wong, Laura Lazare, Lynx Canon, Misty Regan, Sonya Summers, Herschel Savage, Joey Silvera (non sex), John Leslie, Jon Martin, Ron Jeremy

John Leslie stars as the Warden in this women-in-prison porno movie. Women-in-prison movies such as The Big Doll House, The Big Bird Cage, Caged Heat and Chained Heat were extremely popular with audiences in the 1970s and 1980s. This film obviously took the opportunity to cash in on the sleazy genre that was so famous at the time. Ed Hall worked as the director of photography and film editing was done by Ron Hanson.

491. CENTERFOLD CELEBRITIES

1982 Unknown 96 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Lauren Wilde, Laurie Smith, Karen Summer (as Ricky Lane), Cody Nicole (as Roxanne Cody Nicole), Crystal Manning (as Pepper Hinds), Bobby Hollander (non sex), Marc Wallace (as Mark Butler), Ferris Weal (as Merrick Flint), Steve Douglas, Tom Byron

A large portion of this movie features director Bobby Hollander interviewing the actresses and actors. He asks all of them questions such as, "When did you first have sex? Do you enjoy giving head? Do you like anal?" The actresses are completely at ease with themselves and give natural, amusing responses. The men are interviewed too, and everyone gives humorous demonstrations of their lovemaking skills. It was reissued in the USA as Triple-X Confidential 1 in the 1980s.

492. CENTERFOLD CELEBRITIES

1984 Unknown 96 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Becky Savage, Brooke Fields, Cody Nicole, Crystal Lovin, Shauna Grant, Tara Flynn, Bobby Hollander (non sex), Jamie Gillis, Eric Edwards, Steve Douglas

This follow-up to Bobby Hollander's successful Centerfold Celebrities follows the same formula as the original. Well-known porn stars are interviewed and demonstrate their skills as sex performers. It was reissued in the USA as Triple-X Confidential 2 in the 1980s.

493. CENTERFOLD CELEBRITIES

1984 Unknown 80 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Angelique Pettyjohn (as Ashley St. John), Crystal Lake, Crystal Lovin, Desiree Lane, Dominique, Shauna Grant, Tara Flynn, Alan Royce, Bobby Hollander (non sex), Jamie Gillis, David Sanders, Frank James, Paul Thomas, Ron Jeremy

The first scene features Dominique and Frank James. Next, is a scene with Angelique Pettyjohn and Paul Thomas. Shauna Grant and Jamie Gillis appear in the next scene, followed by a scene of Tara Flynn and Alan Royce. Finally, Crystal Lovin, Desiree Lane and Ron Jeremy are in a three-way scene. It was reissued in the USA as Triple-X Confidential 3 in the 1980s.

494. CENTERFOLD CELEBRITIES

1984 Unknown 87 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Amber Lynn (as Amber Lynn Lane), Athena Star, Brandy Alexandre (as Brandi Alexander) (non sex), Helga Sven (as Helga), Karen Summer (non sex), Tantal Ray, Tracy Duzit, Mimi Daniels, Pamela Jennings, Bobby Hollander (non sex), Jamie Gillis, Craig Roberts, John Leslie, Nick Random, Robert Kerman, Sasha Gabor

This fourth volume of Bobby Hollander's Centerfold Celebrities adds nothing new to the series. It was shot-on-video and was a good indicator of the style of unimaginative porno that would become so popular a decade later in the 1990s. It was reissued in the USA as Triple-X Confidential 4 in the 1980s.

495. CENTERFOLD CELEBRITIES

1985 Unknown 76 min. P/D: Bobby Hollander. Cast: Amber Lynn, Athena Star, Brandy Alexandre (as Brandi Alexander), Brooke West, Fawn Dell, Karen Summer (as Karren Summers), Misty Dawn, Pamela Jennings (as Pam Nimo), Tracy Duzit (as Traci Duzit), Bobby Hollander (non sex), Jamie Gillis, Jerry Davis (as Gerry Davis), John Leslie, Ken Starbuck, Nick Random, Robert Kerman (as R. Bolla), Ron Jeremy, Sasha Gabor

With the exception of a few different actresses and actors, this movie is interchangeable with any of the titles in the Centerfold Celebrities series. This fifth volume in the series is shot-on-video and the color is blurred. Good actresses and actors are put to waste in this movie, mainly because the theme was tired by Centerfold Celebrities 4.

496. CENTERFOLD FEVER

Leonard Kirtman's Kirtfilm Studios has been called the "Gower Gulch" of New York City sleaze. While far more interested in quantity than quality, Kirtman's production house churned out many quick and simple porn films in the 1970s. Certified Mail is the story of a mail lady (Foxx) who stumbles into sexual scenarios while making her daily deliveries. In the first scene, she's "raped" by a little black guy in a ski cap and a tall tattooed guy (Allen). The scene contains good double penetration and double-fellatio. At a karate studio across town, Lynn Stevens rolls on the mats with Marc Stevens and another guy. The mail lady soon arrives and jumps in on the action, once again getting double penetrated. In another part of town, Linda Vale is getting hot looking at men's muscle magazines. Luckily, a deliver boy (Webb) arrives at her service. Meanwhile, the mail lady shows up at the house of a pale man masturbating in bed. She jumps in the sack and helps him out. Finally, the mail lady shows up at Linda's with a 12" dildo in a package. Linda decides she'd rather have sex with the mail lady, and soon the delivery boy jumps in too. According to an ad in the Village Voice, Certified Mail premiered in New York in July of 1974. The ad incorrectly spelled the title as Certified Male, and lists Lynn Stevens (as Linda L'Amour) as the headliner, although Sandy Foxx (as Lil Annie) stars. Film editing was done by Hop Sing and sound was done by Carl Evans. Kirtman Studios regular C. Davis Smith (as Chas. Davis) worked as the lighting technician and Sol Katz worked as the camera operator. The theatrical release of the film included "postal music" including Elvis Presley's "Return to Sender," the Tin Pan Alley standard "I'm Gonna Sit Right Down and Write Myself a Letter," and The Beatles' "Mr. Postman." They're put off by women like Shanna McCullough and Sharon Kane, who have their own video companies and get decent gross profits. John Leslie gets them involved on projects and they each do their best to ruin the other's production. There's a good 15-minute three-way oil scene with Monet, McCullough and Knights. Nikki Knights also appears handcuffed in a men's room with her face in a toilet, fellating Tom Byron while Joey Silvera has sex with her. Conflict was shot in 35mm and was given the "Highest Rating" by both Hustler and Adult Video News. The screenplay was written by Raven Touchstone, who remembers, "This story and screenplay happened as a result of my work with both Bruce and Pachard. Each was brilliant in his own way, Bruce with sex, Pachard with story, and each had a specific style of shooting sex. Over drinks one evening, I said to them both, 'I'd like to write a movie with both of you as yourselves ... you each direct three sex scenes ... make it a contest.' We had a ball shooting it. They were like brothers to me." Released on DVD by Caballero.

Debbie Does Dallas is possibly the most recognizable porn title ever produced. According to the documentary Debbie Does Dallas Uncovered, it is one of the top five highest grossing porno films in history. It was second only to Deep Throat as best seller on videocassette in 1980. Its unforgettable name alone has made it one of the most important adult films of all time. The simple storyline is about a group of high school cheerleaders led by Debbie Benton (Woods). Debbie gets a spot on the roster of a "team from Texas," but can't afford to get there on her own. So, her cheerleader friends agree to help her make some money by taking odd jobs. One in a library, one as a candle maker and Debbie gets a job working in a clothing store for Mr. Greenfield (Kerman). The girls eventually realize they can get more money in exchange for sexual favors from their bosses than by working. The screenplay was written by Maria Minestra and film editing was done by Hals Liptus. Billy Budd worked as the director of photography and original music is performed by Gerard Sampler. Bolla), Ron Jeremy, Jerry Butler, Jay Serling, Jamie St. James

Disappointingly, the third Debbie Does Dallas film is mostly made up of archive footage from the previous Debbie movies. Bambi Woods does appear in the film as Debbie, who has apparently become a porno star since the last movie. She talks about the town she's from, the people there, and the effect her fame has had on them. Woods' only sex scene is from Debbie Does Dallas II, with Robert Kerman (as R. Bolla). Kristara Barrington steals this movie, especially in a hot four-way scene with Joanna Storm, Ron Jeremy and Jay Serling. Cast: Linda Lovelace, Carol Connors, Dolly Sharp, Harry Reems, Bill Harrison, William Love, Bob Phillips, Ted Street, John Byron, Jack Birch (as Michael Powers), Gerard Damiano (non sex)

Deep Throat is the story of a woman (Lovelace) who has never had an orgasm, so she consults a doctor (Reems) to find out why. After a series of silly tests, he discovers that her clitoris is located about nine inches down her throat. He tells her to perform fellatio using a "deep throat" technique, which finally gives her an orgasm. Carol Connors appears as a helpful nurse. Director Gerard Damiano (as Jerry Gerard) also worked as the writer and film editor. Cinematography was done by Joao Fernandes (as Harry Flecks).

Historically, there is no American film as significant to the adult industry as Gerard Damiano's Deep Throat. Produced by the Peraino brothers for $25,000, Deep Throat is said to have grossed over $50 million within a decade of its release. The star, Linda Lovelace, became porn's first household name, pushing pornography to the front of the mainstream. Middle America and Hollywood celebrities alike embraced Deep Throat, bringing about the term "porno chic." In 1975, the FBI launched an obscenity trial targeting the film, in hopes of eliminating all pornography. One hundred and seventeen people were charged with conspiracy for the production of Deep Throat, from the cameraman to the projectionist. Director Gerard Damiano and star Linda Lovelace had immunity, but leading man Harry Reems did not. Reems was found guilty of obscenity charges and faced five years in prison. He was the first actor to be convicted for playing a film role in U.S. history. He received major support from Hollywood actors in Los Angeles and New York, who feared for their own civil and creative rights. When Democrat Jimmy Carter was elected president of the United States in 1977, Reems' conviction was overturned on appeal and charges were eventually dropped. The complete story of Deep Throat and its impact on American culture and cinema is told in Fenton Bailey and Randy Barbato's excellent documentary Inside Deep Throat. Released on DVD by Arrow.

Justine Jones (Spelvin) is a virgin spinster who cuts her wrists, unhappy with her own sexuality. Before spending eternity in Hell, Miss Jones is given a final chance to experience the sins of the flesh that she missed out on during her life. Director Gerard Damiano also wrote the screenplay and worked as the film editor. Cinematography was done by Joao Fernandes (as Harry Flecks) and original music is performed by Alden Shuman. Miss Spelvin was initially hired to run the commissary, cooking and feeding the crew. After she was cast as the lead, she continued to work as the cook. The Devil in Miss Jones remains one of the most important movies in the history of adult films, along with Deep Throat, Behind the Green Door and later, Debbie Does Dallas. It was instrumental in pushing porno films into the mainstream by making so much money at the box office that it played in legitimate theaters. The movie was one of the first to prove that porno films could be true artistic expressions, evident by Damiano's troubling Catholic-guilt visions and Georgina Spelvin's fine acting. It also contains one of the grimmest portrayals of suicide ever depicted in an adult film, or mainstream film for that matter. Released on DVD by VCA.

741. THE DEVIL IN MISS JONES, PART II

1982 Nibo Films 80 min. P/D: James Bochis/Henri Pachard. Cast: Georgina Spelvin, Sharon Kane, Anna Ventura, Cami Graham, Dena Ferrara, Jacqueline Lorians, Joanna Storm, Merle Michaels (non sex), Samantha Fox (non sex), Sharon Mitchell, Adam De Haven (non sex), Alan Adrian, Ashley Moore, Bobby Astyr, Fred J. Lincoln (as F.J. Lincoln), George Payne, Henri Pachard (non sex), Jack Wrangler, Joe Santini, Joey Silvera, Kurt Mann (non sex), Chuck Vincent (a Mark Ubell) (non sex), Michael Bruce, Robert Kerman (as R. Bolla), Ron Jeremy

Georgina Spelvin returns as Justine Jones nearly a decade after The Devil in Miss Jones was originally released. Director Henri Pachard puts a humorous twist on the story, unlike Gerard Damiano's bleak original. When Miss Jones (Spelvin) arrives in Hell, she learns about a deal between Lucifer (Wrangler) and the Devil's Advocate (Kerman), which allows everyone in Hell to have sex but not orgasm. Miss Jones strikes a sexual deal with the Devil, allowing her to return to Earth in the bodies of various young women (Lorians, Storm and Ventura). However, the Devil falls in love with Miss Jones and becomes jealous. He finally puts her in the body of a nun, Sister Angela (Fox), leading to a comedic finale. The screenplay was written by Ellie Howard and Henri Pachard. Larry Revene worked as the director of photography and original music is performed by Barry Levitt, including the song, "I Can't Do It by Myself." The song, "It's Just the Devil in Miss Jones" is sung by Johnny Hartman with lyrics by Jack Wrangler. Released on DVD by VCA, Arrow.

742. THE DEVIL IN MISS JONES 3: A NEW BEGINNING

Bradley, Jack Baker (non sex), Kevin James (non sex), Marc Wallace, Paul Thomas, Peter North, Robbie Dee (non sex), Steve Powers, Tom Byron, Tony Martino, Troy Tannier, Angst Argyle (non sex), Jim Taylor (non sex)

Lois Ayers takes over the role of Miss Jones from Georgina Spelvin, in the Dark Brothers' take on The Devil in Miss Jones series. Miss Jones (Ayers) slips in the shower and kills herself after being "screwed over" by a guy (Byron). She ends up in Hell with a guide named Negro (Baker) who leads her around. Vanessa Del Rio appears as a subway victim whose head was cut off, and now she "gives head" to all the newcomers of Hell. This is a sick and silly continuation of The Devil in Miss Jones legacy. Apparently, Traci Lords shot scenes for this movie and still shots appeared in a "set report" article about the film in men's magazines during the 1980s. When the scandal over Lords' age went public, her scenes were cut from the movie and replaced with new footage. The screenplay was written by Gregory Dark and Johnny Jump-Up. Junior "Speedy" Bodden worked as the director of photography and film editing was done by Kaye Vie. Original music is performed by Eleven Blue Men and Gleaming Spires. Released on DVD by VCA.

According to screenwriter David Jennings' autobiography, Skinflicks: The Inside Story of the Adult Film Industry (1st Books, 2000), E.X. was another flop for Superior Video and only sold 1062 pieces upon release. Jennings attributed this to what he calls "The Smut Glut," a crowded marketplace of porn sales veterans, newcomers, small companies, and "Mafia poor relations" during the mid-'80s. He explains how AVN noted that the number of porn releases escalated from 400 in 1983 to 1,100 in 1984 and 1,610 in 1985. The adult video industry entered a time of rip-offs, lawsuits, arsons, murders and bankruptcy. This was the end of the production of big-budget hardcore feature films being shot for theatrical release. The shot-on-video porno movie was the next major turn that the industry took.

1971 Boojum Productions 80 min. P/D: Shaun Costello (as Helmuth Richler). Cast: Laura Cannon, Jutta David, Nancy Fawcett, Ruby Runhouse, Shaun Costello (as Russ Carlson), Harry Reems (as Tim Long)

One of the most disturbing, unique and powerful hardcore features to come out of the 1970s, Forced Entry is just as shocking today as it was decades ago. Harry Reems portrays a deranged Vietnam vet, released from duty, who takes out his post-traumatic aggression on New York City's female population. Beautifully dark and gritty, Forced Entry has scenes of graphic rape and murder mixed with actual newsreel footage of Vietnam atrocities. It was one of the first films in history to mix hardcore with the slasher/horror genre. It was also possibly the first film to exploit "post-Vietnam syndrome," years before Taxi Driver, the Rambo films, Rolling Thunder and Buddy Giovinazzo's Combat Shock were made.

Forced Entry was filmed in fall of 1970 and Shaun Costello sold the film outright to Gerry Intrator in the spring of 1971. Intrator ended up adding 12 minutes of outtakes (Reems walking, gawking, climbing and peering around corners) because his distribution deal with Sherpix demanded a longer cut than Costello's 72-minute version. Sherpix wanted a cross-over release aimed at porn and horror audiences and they released the film in early 1972. It did low to medium box office for a while, before fizzling. It was re-released several times until around mid-'74, in porn and splatter houses, and finally went on the shelf. According to Costello, the film was never released by Chelly Wilson's Variety Films, but rather she probably stuck her Variety Films title on the head of a few prints that played her Avon chain of theaters, causing it to be associated with the Avon name. Costello says she also did this with films produced by Star Distributors, which was the porn arm of both the DeCavalcante and Gambino families, until the boys paid her a visit. Sherpix didn't have that kind of muscle. Costello says he made back the initial cost of $6,200 and both Intrator and Sherpix made a few dollars on the film. It's also known as Intimate Entry. Released on DVD by After Hours Cinema.

"You will be forgiven," he tells her before having sex. After separate encounters with the sinners, he tells them that they are not sinners at all, but in fact, Serena, Maria and Jason Burke are the guilty ones. He tells them that they will get revenge on Saturday night. In the end, the Confessor invites all the sinners to his church at once, drugs their wine, and Ingrid, Brad and Vicki punish the sinners in a sadistic orgy that ends with everyone having sex with everyone. The late Bumble Bee, granddaughter of Avon owner Murray, is listed in the credits as assistant director to Phil Prince. The original music is by Lee Label, who also did the music for The Story of Prunella. An original description of this film by Senior Investigator Haggerty was published in the Final Report of the Attorney General's Commission on Pornography issued on July 3, 1986. P/D: Jack Sloanel/Paul Levis. Cast: Phaedra Grant, Eileen Welles (as Constance Penny), Desiree Cousteau (as Danielle Hunnee), Jessica Leigh, Maureen Spring, Paula Brown, Sandy Pinney, Lisa Sue Corey (as Sylvia Rodgers), Andrea Lange (as Audrey Longo), Blair Harris, David Pinney, Don Fernando, Jon Martin (as Jerry Smith), Jesse Adams, John Leslie, John Seeman (as Roy Stells), Andy Fields

The story starts out with a prostitute named Angel (Grant) servicing a client (Seeman) by telephone, after which she goes to a convenience store for cigarettes. The Westside Rapist (Martin) enters the store with a gun in a hold-up attempt, but is chased off by a plainclothes policeman named Tony (Leslie) who happens to be shopping inside the store. The Westside Rapist snatches Angel's purse on the way out, so she and Tony chase after him in Tony's car. This scene is one of the best car chase sequences ever filmed in a porno, complete with a motorcyclist being thrown from his bike through a building, into the middle of a three-way with a copulating older couple, and two people (Adams and Lange) performing oral sex in a car that keeps getting bumped. The Westside Rapist escapes and hides out at Tony's house, having sex with Tony's willing wife in bed and in the bathtub, while Tony is at Angel's house having a drink and sleeping with her. When Tony arrives home, The Westside Rapist is still there, but escapes out the back door and steals Tony's car. Then, he picks up a young girl on her way to go babysitting. They screw in a superb car sex scene, and then the young girl is in bed with a woman hiring her to babysit. This great lesbian scene is intercut with surreal images of a carousel and painted horses going up and down. Next, is a 20-minute orgy scene in a disco where a band called The Filthy Four are playing live onstage, getting fellated while performing. Seven naked guys are also getting fellated by seven naked girls in rhythm to the music, before this obviously drug-fueled production abruptly ends. It was filmed in San Francisco, California, with cinematography by Han Zeffron and original music by Nubar Zozaya. Released on DVD by Alpha Blue Archives.

(Gaunt) is posing as an insurance salesman and pushes his way into Ellen’s house. He takes her to the bedroom and forces her to undress at knife-point. She’s sobbing as he ties her to the bed, legs spread. He’s interrupted by Gail arriving, but ties her up too, and viciously rapes them both. Eventually, Gail obtains the knife and stabs him to death. There’s a great roughie scene of a female agent being forcefully droned by a muscular alien (Weisberg), as multiple drones hold her down. Eric Edwards stars as the Primary Drone and Jamie Gillis makes an amusing appearance as the Drone Mass Leader. Any Mathieu plays a dual role as Janice and as Drone Master (as Anything Goes). Juliet Bashore's Kamikaze Hearts is a fascinating documentary that follows Sharon Mitchell behind-the-scenes during the making of an adult film, but it's much more than that. In Cinema Sewer (Fab Press, 2007), Robin Bougie describes this film as "a one-of-a-kind 16mm porn-industry time capsule that shifts nearly unnoticed between the real and unreal, as Mitchell and company become actors and actresses portraying themselves in reenactments of scenes leading up to and following the footage a documentary camera crew captured while behind-the-scenes of a cum coated mid-'80s porn film." Filmed on location in San Francisco, California, it follows Mitchell and her lover Tigr from the seedy porno sets to strip club fist-fights, after party arguments, and dirty hotel rooms. They reveal how they use heroin as a release from their squalid world, and it's obvious that neither of them get off on anything anymore. In one of the final scenes of the ordeal, Mitchell and Tigr shoot up heroin on-screen and Mitchell philosophizes as she pulls the needle out of her arm, "This is the truth. This is a movie within a movie within a movie. This is timeless." Upon its theatrical release in 1986, LA Weekly wrote, "Kamikaze Hearts drags you to a certain place—the world of lesbian junkie porn stars—and keeps you there for eighty minutes. If you're excited by that place, or even if you find that place disturbing, you'll like this film because it's so relentlessly inside the world of naked bodies, make-believe, addiction, despair, two-bit sleaze, and two-bit dreams." The story was written by Juliet Bashore, John Knoop and Tigr (as Tigr Mennett). Cinematography was done by David Golia and film editing was done by John Knoop. A young Marian Wilde can be seen holding a boom mike. Wilde went on to work as foley editor of films such as Rain Man and Star Wars: Episode I—The Phantom Menace. It was distributed by Facets Multimedia Distribution. Kamikaze Hearts won the Best Feature Film Award at the Torino International Gay and Lesbian Film Festival in 1990.

It is shot in documentary style with interviews featuring Jeanne between sex scenes. In one of the segments, Jeanne picks up a young bi-sexual and uses her stump to penetrate his behind. Other segments show her penetrating women including Amber Hunt and Sandy Pinney. It ran unchallenged for several months, before De Renzy decided to hand it over to distributor/theater owner/producer Mike Weldon, who made Getting Off and Skintight. Weldon shopped the film and was dismayed to find out that every sub-distributor and theater owner who had seen it came out screaming. Legendary adult film historian Johnny Legend was hired to find out what was wrong and remove the scene from every existing print. Apparently, the scene of Silver penetrating the young bi-sexual guy was too much for most viewers and it was removed. This exploitive, biased and ignorant "documentary" was produced by the National Film Board of Canada with an estimated budget of

Ms. Peters volunteers for a photo shoot with female photographer Suze Randall, which she seems to enjoy. Later, she stages a protest and talks about how “degrading” the photo shoot was. With a production value of $200,000, Not Just Another Woman was by far the most expensive porno film ever produced when it was released in New York City on January 24, 1974. The story is about an oversexed playboy (Allen) whose wife (Rains) seduces women for them to have their way with. He eventually tries to get her to seduce her own sister (Russell), who is a nun. Highly imaginative scenes include Marc Stevens using a Samurai sword to slice zucchini perched on a naked nun’s throat and Tina Russell lustfully leering down from a crucifix.

The film premiered at the Lincoln Art Theatre on 57th Street East of Broadway in New York City, and was followed with a limousine motorcade to the English Pub at 7th Avenue at 57th Street for the after-party. A number of celebrities attended the party including Tina Russell, Darby Lloyd Rains, Marc Stevens and his date, Georgina Spelvin. Several important media people also attended including interviewers and photographers from NBC, CBS, and WMCA radio. Al Goldstein panned the film in the February 18, 1974, issue of Screw magazine, calling it “a highly embarrassing swath of over-produced horseshit.”

It's hard to pinpoint when the actual change occurred, making shaved women the standard in porno movies. Many think that women seeing themselves on-screen helped the transition to occur. Changes in fashions of swimwear and underwear may have also contributed to the change in standards.

He rapes the girl on the dirty cave floor, threatens to fist her, and makes her beg and call him "Daddy." Meanwhile, Rebecca tells Ms. Zorda what happened and they go into the cave. Shawn Costello remembers that Doug Collins, whose nom de porn was Constantine Zuba, along with his partner Avind Harim, made a wacky and completely unsellable movie called An American in Bethesda, which was billed as the world's first "Porno-Vaudeville-Musical." Collins and Harim put ads in the trades for vaudeville performers and were inundated by hundreds of singers, tap dancers, comedians, and even an adagio dance act called Patrick and Nadja, who did an Adam-and-Eve routine with their own twelve-foot python. The movie takes place at Bethesda Naval Hospital, where a crazed entertainment director decides to hire old vaudeville acts to entertain the patients, who are recently returned from the Vietnam War. Costello says that years later, when Collins needed money, he was still trying to sell this unsold little epic. Costello talked some distributors into purchasing the footage, and then added some new sex scenes. The film was finally released as Teenage Nurses in 1973. Released on DVD by Video-X-Pix.

As Ben writes the story, he gets so horny that he promises to go undercover and expose the gang. The finale takes place at Lucky's nightclub, where Ingrid gets it on with Lucky and Willy at the same time as Nurse Helga distracts Ben. Eventually, Ben records the gang talking and calls his friend at the D.A.'s office, busting the ring wide open. In the end, the bad guys get caught and June and Ben live happily together.

Director Shaun Costello remembers that this movie was made for Star Distributors, the porno end of the DeCavalcante crime family. Star would distribute films to theatre owners who would then change the titles, and re-sell them to other theatre owners, a practice that sometimes ended in a theatre being burned to the ground by mafia emissaries. Costello says that many of the films he made may have had the title changed ten or fifteen times during the distribution cycle, and that of the sixty films he made for Star Distributors, possibly only fifteen or twenty have survived. Appendix 1: 8mm Loop-ography

This appendix, listing hundreds of 8mm loop films, was compiled by gathering information from numerous private collectors who have kept a good inventory of their collections. The first line of the entry, in bold, refers to the name of the 8mm loop series. In most cases, loops were released under a series name, then individually numbered and titled (such as Swedish Erotica #10: Hollywood Starlet). When possible, the loop number as well as the individual title is included. When the number was not available, a question mark takes its place.

He has been accused of spreading child pornography globally with his professionally shot film series, Lolita, which depicts the sexual abuse of prepubescent boys and girls. Color Climax was charged by the U.S. government for producing child pornography because of the 8mm loop entitled Teenage Tricks a.k.a. Patsy Learns to Play, which features an allegedly underage Tove Jensen. Color Climax also released many of the bestiality films that made Bodil Joensen a star.

Diamond Collection

Diamond Collection was a popular series of the early '80s, founded by Charles Brickman, a former TV repairman, who also started Cinderella Distributors in 1977. Brickman was famous for shooting extra footage to be used in "R-rated" cable versions of some of his movies. Diamond Collection was one of the longest running loop series, and was certainly one of the sleaziest commercially available 8mm loop series of the 1980s.

According to John Milton's "Mail Order Madness" column in a 1975 Screw magazine, "Karla Schmidt is the best filmmaker to hit 8mm porno since Lasse Braun. Her films are both sexually arousing and interesting artistically." Karla Schmidt films offered bizarre fetishes including urination, rape and shaved pubic hair. Especially interesting is the film Hooked, in which a disgusting old man in a pirate suit forcefully penetrates a young brunette's anus with a metal hook-hand while she urinates. Karla Schmidt films were distributed by M.K. Enterprises out of Canton, Ohio.

 In the February 9, 1976, issue of Screw magazine, a $1,000 reward was offered in John Milton's "Mail Order Madness" column to anyone with information leading to the arrest and conviction of the firm(s) producing and distributing the Screw Presents series. The producers of this series blatantly ripped off the Screw name on their packaging. Milton warned all other mail-order firms that may have been distributing this series, that if caught, they would be blacklisted from Screw magazine's "Safe Seller List" and put on the "Dirty Dealer List," as well as face legal action from the proper legal authorities.
